

	Trombone The trombone is a brass instrument with a long, telescopic slide. It is known for its rich, mellow sound and is often used in orchestras and jazz bands.		French Horn The French horn is a brass instrument with a large, flared bell. It is known for its mellow, rounded sound and is often used in orchestras.		Tuba The tuba is a large brass instrument with a deep, powerful sound. It is often used in marching bands and orchestras.		Woodwind The woodwind section of an orchestra includes instruments like the flute, clarinet, and saxophone. They are known for their melodic and rhythmic capabilities.
	Piccolo The piccolo is a small woodwind instrument, often used to play high-pitched, melodic lines. It is known for its bright, piercing sound.		Flute The flute is a woodwind instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Clarinet The clarinet is a woodwind instrument with a long, straight body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Bass Clarinet The bass clarinet is a woodwind instrument with a long, straight body and a large, flared bell. It is known for its deep, mellow sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.
	Bassoon The bassoon is a woodwind instrument with a long, straight body and a large, flared bell. It is known for its deep, mellow sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Oboe The oboe is a woodwind instrument with a long, straight body and a large, flared bell. It is known for its deep, mellow sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Cor Anglais The cor anglais is a woodwind instrument with a long, straight body and a large, flared bell. It is known for its deep, mellow sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Strings The string section of an orchestra includes instruments like the violin, viola, cello, and double bass. They are known for their melodic and rhythmic capabilities.
	Bow The bow is a long, thin instrument used to play string instruments. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Violin The violin is a string instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Viola The viola is a string instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Cello The cello is a string instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.
	Double Bass The double bass is a string instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Percussion The percussion section of an orchestra includes instruments like the timpani, snare drum, and cymbal. They are known for their rhythmic capabilities.		Glockenspiel The glockenspiel is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Xylophone The xylophone is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.
	Vibraphone The vibraphone is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Timpani The timpani is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Snare Drum / Side Drum The snare drum is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Cymbal The cymbal is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.
	Tamtam The tamtam is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Harp The harp is a string instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Wood Block The wood block is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.		Triangle The triangle is a percussion instrument with a long, slender body. It is known for its clear, bright sound and is often used in orchestras and chamber music.

Δημιούργησε κατηγορίες μουσικών οργάνων και γράψε τα όργανα που αντιστοιχούν στην καθεμιά. Ψάξε στο google και βρες την ονομασία τους στα ελληνικά. Τι παρατηρείς;